SOUTH BEACH BUZZ

The spectacular finishing touch to superstar hotelier Adrian Zecha's new South Beach hotel The Setai is its massive 10,000-square-foot Penthouse Suite. Set atop a striking 40-story tower that is the tallest structure on the South Beach skyline, the three-bedroom suite spans two full floors and has a rooftop pool for private swimming and sunbathing. Floor-to-ceiling windows encircle the suite's perimeter and offer unobstructed views of its surroundings including the beach, Atlantic Ocean and downtown Miami. Luxurious natural materials (black granite tiles, Cumaru wood detailing, honed limestone) create a soothing palette of charcoal, chocolate and honey tones throughout, while sleek, chic furnishings have a clean, modern look. Technophiles will feel at home with satellite and digital television, XM radio, and large flat-screen Fujitsu TVs at their disposal plus wall-mounted LCD controls in every room to control them all. The celebrity set seems pleased with the results: Jay-Z and Beyoncé have celebrated in the suite and Lenny Kravitz has a recording studio in the same building. The oversized space is ideal for staging an ultra-impressive event (it overflowed with stars during the weekend of the MTV Video Music Awards) or a decidedly exclusive beachfront getaway ($25,000 nightly).
